PETITION TO MOVE PLANT IS REJECTED

M. J. Murphy's plant at Ninth and Monte Verde streets will stay where it is, at least for the present.

A petition to move the plant to Mission street between Ocean and Seventh was denied Wednesday night when the council met in adjourned session. The petition was originally filed with the council by residents living near the Monte Verde establishment.

Denial of the petition was made following a report of Argyll Campbell, city attorney, to the effect that the zoning ordinance does not allow establishment of plants such as Murphy's in the business zone. Plants already standing at the time the zoning ordinance was adopted are exceptions, however.

Thus the council had no alternative in the matter.

Campbell gave the legal opinion that an industrial district might be formed that would permit Murphy to move from Monte Verde to some other section of town. The council has referred that suggestion to the municipal advisory board, which will meet Monday, May 26, to study the matter. At the same time the board, at the request of the council, will begin study of the broad questions bound up in planning for the future Carmel. What sort of a town will we have 15 years from now? That is the question that the board will look into.

Other matters taken up were the following: last reading and adoption of an ordinance for issuance of $15,000 worth of bonds for the purchase of fire department equipment, decision to put the report of the auditor on file for public inspection in the city hall, first reading of an ordinance permitting Miss Claribel Haycock to erect a commercial garage at the northwest corner of Junipero and Sixth streets, first reading of an ordinance permitting La Playa hotel to build an addition and to operate as a hotel in the residential zone, and permission to cut four eucalyptus trees on Monte Verde street to lessen the traffic hazard in the gulch.

At the same time the four oak trees that figured in the latter case will be trimmed but left standing. It is probable that a telephone pole will be moved back. The road is to be widened and a foot-path laid out for pedestrians.

The council will meet again May 28.

TODAY CLOSES REGISTRATION FOR BOND VOTE

Residents of the Monterey union high school district, of which the Highlands, Carmel Valley and Carmel itself are a part, may still register today for the $225,000 high school bond election to be held June 16.

But today is the last time for people who have not already signed to register. Registration headquarters are at the office of Peter Mawdsley on San Carlos street immediately north of Ocean. Mrs. Katherine Overstreet is the registrar.

If voters in the Monterey union high school district pass the $225,000 bond issue to be held June 16, the funds will be used for the following improvements at the school:

15 additional classrooms $80,000

New Gymnasium	65,000
Remodelling office and repairs	7,000
Remodelling auditorium	10,000
Shop extension	15,000
Construction of tennis courts	8,000
Heating	25,000
Grading and parking	5,000
Girl's athletic field	10,000
Total	$225,000

Carmel voters, as part of the union high school district, will cast their ballots June 16 at Sunset school.

DAISY WRECKED

Mrs. Daisy Bostick escaped without injury in an automobile accident in New Monterey Wednesday night. Her car was struck by another machine and damaged considerably. No charges have been filed against the driver of the other car, nor is he injured.

SPADE AND HOE GAIN FAME AND PRIZES

Carmel's long heralded garden contest begins next Tuesday.

On Tuesday and Wednesday, when judges visit the various gardens entered in the competition, the result of weeks of watering, digging, weeding and planning will be on display.

On Thursday prizes will be awarded to winners in the various competing groups.

For weeks amateur gardeners of Carmel and the adjoining territory have been eagerly preparing for the event. Each contestant has had a royal good time bringing his or her garden to the point of maximum beauty, and each has been striving mightily for a prize.

Fully as much interest has been aroused by this year's garden contest as by the flower show sponsored a year ago by the Woman's club.

Arrangements have been made to throw each of the gardens open to public inspection on Thursday and Friday. In this issue of the Pine Cone may be found the address of every garden entered in the competition.

In order to give everyone an equal chance, contest sponsors have divided the gardens into various groups. Rock gardens, hillside gardens, woodland gardens, conventional gardens—all these types and more have their own particular field of competition.

Entries Listed

The following list of gardens which have been entered to date in the Carmel garden contest will be open to the public May 22 and 23 from 10:00 to 12:00 in the morning and from 2:00 to 5:00 in the afternoon. Any gardens registered after this paper goes to press will be announced in next week's issue. Complete lists of entries and addresses will be left at all hotels and real estate offices. Little stakes and green cards will be posted at the entrances to gardens which are in the contest.

This contest is the first of its

the year after that. The possi-

the gardens which have been

10:00 a. m. to 4:00 p. m. in the store of Delos Curtis immediately below the Curtis Candy Kitchen on Ocean avenue.

The display will be on view while the gardens in the contest are being judged.

Prizes are being contributed by peninsula nurserymen. Choice shrubs, potted plants, roses, peat moss and the like go to Carmel's lucky and deserving gardeners.

Prize contributors include Mr. J. A. Burge, San Carlos St. Carmel; Charles Watson, San Carlos St. Carmel; The Garden Shop, Dolores St. Carmel; Mr. R. Edgerton, Carmel Florists Nursery, Carmel Highlands; Mr. James Bishop, Pine View Nursery, New Monterey; Del Monte Nursery, Del Monte; Holman's Dept. Store, Pacific Grove; Louis Holtcheur, Louis Hill Estate, Pebble Beach.

CONTEST JUDGES

With the exception of class VII, rock gardens, which will be judged by Miss Emily Pitkin and Miss Florence Ray of the Highlands, and class VIII, rose gardens, which will be judged by A. B. Rogers of Pacific Grove, a well known judge of San Jose shows, the gardens in the garden contest will be judged by the following people: Mrs.

GARDEN CONTEST PRIZES WILL GO ON DISPLAY SOON

Prizes that will be awarded to winners in the Carmel Woman's club garden contest will be on display May 20 and 21 from

For the first time in many years almost 30 of Carmel's loveliest gardens will be open to the public. On May 22nd and 23rd, the two days following the judging of the garden contest, from 10:00 to 12:00 in the mornings and from 2:00 to 5:00 in the afternoons, all who love gardens will be welcome in many of the most secret garden retreats of Carmel.

Perhaps you have longed to follow a woodsy path to the charming garden you feel sure is at the other end; perhaps you have yearned for a glimpse of the patio back of a certain wall. Perhaps you have heard interesting rumours of an iris bordered pool, or a garden of potted plants. Here is your chance to see for yourself the hidden beauties of Carmel.

The list of entries and addresses printed elsewhere in this paper will tell you approximately where the gardens are. A little stake and a green card posted at the entrance to a garden will be the magic sign, the signal to enter.

These beautiful gardens of Carmel will be something for all Carmelites—sheer beauty for our poets and our painters, new inspiration and guidance for those of us who love our gardens or are planning new gardens.

Carmel cannot legally declare a holiday, according to a recent report of city attorney Argyll Campbell, in honor of Monterey's birthday celebration June 3. But the mayor can issue a proclamation, Campbell informed the city council, urging all good Carmelites to attend the anniversary in the town over the hill.

SWEEPSTAKES SILVER CUP WILL BE AWARDED

CUP WILL BE GIVEN IN GARDEN CONTEST

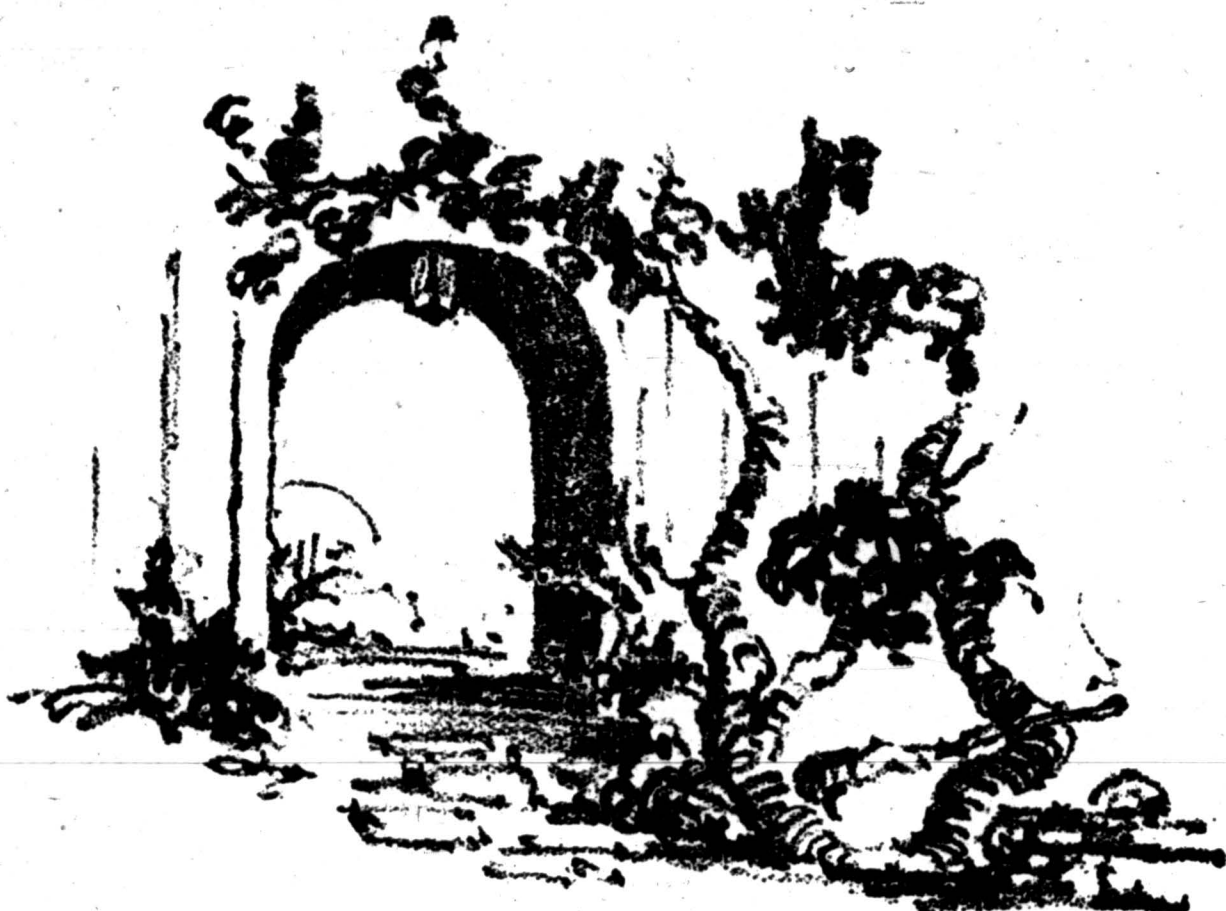

A silver cup will be given as a special Sweepstakes Prize for the best use of space in the garden. All the gardens which have entered any of the general classes automatically qualify for this part of the contest.

The cup was donated at the end of last year's flower show for use this spring. It will be held for one year by the winner whose name will be engraved on the cup at expense of the donor. Each year thereafter it will be used as a trophy in either a flower show or a garden contest.

Contest Rules

1. Be sure that your garden is neat. Upkeep will count 15%.
2. Last minute cultivating will help to give the garden a well cared for appearance.
3. Last minute watering is worth while for the effect of freshness which it gives to the garden.
4. Last but not least, the committee requests that contestants absent themselves from their gardens during the judging. This is necessary in order to save time and to avoid any possible distraction of the judges.

Mrs. Jane O. Swain, who for the past two years has been living at Shula Vista, on Monte Verde, has gone to her new home in Hollywood.

FUNDS COME IN FOR BOY SCOUT HOME IN CARMEL

Members of committee raising funds for construction of a scout house for Carmel's boys are making their final campaign at the present time.

Since the drive started five new patrols of cub scouts—boys between nine and 12 years of age—have been formed. Twenty-two boys are members of this junior scouting organization.

That a boy scout house would give these young chaps a recreational center is a point stressed by school authorities, scout leaders and parents. The value of such a common meeting place where boys of impressionable ages may gather under the best conditions is regarded as one of the strongest reasons why the sum of $3,500 should be raised for the building of a boy scout home.

More than $2,000 has been collected at present. As soon as an even $3,000 is reached an anonymous Carmelite will donate the remaining $500.

CHILDREN'S CLINIC TO BE OPENED HERE

A free physical examination of Carmel children will be held in the kindergarten building of Sunset School on Wednesday afternoon, May 21st, from one until five o'clock. This is the Parent Teacher Association's annual Summer Round-up of the children and is available for children born in 1924 and 1925, or those who will enter school for the first time in September. Necessary suggestions are given the parents. The corrections themselves are to be taken care of at the parent's expense.

Children just beginning school have so many new experiences that they need to be in excellent physical condition. They need to be able to work on equal terms with their new comrades. If eye-sight is not perfect or hearing slightly dull of course they cannot learn the songs, learn the games, learn to read as well as they should. Teeth needing care should be attended to during the summer months so that school attendance is not broken into. Suggestions for proper posture or nourishment should be learned at this time and followed so that strong healthy little ones are ready for their newly busy days.

Doctors Wilson Davidson and Margaret Levick are conducting the physical examinations; Doctors Raymond Brownell and Clarence Terry are examining the teeth.

Mrs. Ernest Bixler is chairman of the P. T. A. Summer Round-up committee and will be glad to give further information.

TRAVERS COMPANY OF CITY TO GIVE PLAYS IN CARMEL

Early predictions that Carmel has in store one of its most successful seasons of summer plays are further bolstered in the announcement that the Travers Repertory company of San Francisco will appear in the Carmel Playhouse May 30 and 31 and June 1.

The San Francisco organization, said to be one of the best in the business, will present Sir Arthur Pinero's "Amazons" on the 30th. Schnitzler's "The Affairs of Anatol" will be given on the following two dates.

With those two attractions Carmel's long-awaited summer season will be sent off on its start.

The Amazons was recently given a gala performance at the Palace of the Legion of Honor in the city. The Affairs of Anatol will open at the new Fairmont Hotel theatre, named the Travers Theatre in honor of Reginald Travers, for 20 years the genius and leading spirit of the amateur theatre of San Francisco.

This little playhouse de luxe, seating only 200, with its whole season sold out in advance by subscription, will open early in June. Carmel will see the premiere performance of The Affairs of Anatol.

In presenting the San Francisco players Edward Kuster hopes that the engagement will be successful enough to be followed by previews of some of the other plays of the San Francisco season.

Mrs. Marion Todd entertained in her home last week. Among the guests present were Mr. and Mrs. Paul Flanders, Mr. and Mrs. John Kenneth Turner, Miss Katharine Cooke and Mr. Ernest Schweninger.

UZZELL IS INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Viert Uzzell is at his home at Ninth and Monte Verde street, recovering from injuries received last Saturday night in an automobile accident between Monterey and Watsonville.

Uzzell, employee of a Carmel building firm and a popular player in the Abalone baseball league, was riding in the rear seat of his brother's machine. When the car crossed an open drainage ditch running diagonally across the road, Uzzell was thrown to the top of the machine, painfully wrenching his neck.

The injured man was first taken to a Monterey hospital for treatment. A short time later he was taken to his home. His injuries, it was believed at the time, were not serious.

SUNSET PUPILS TO PRESENT PAGEANT

An interesting activity being undertaken by the pupils of Sunset school is a pageant based on the idea of securing world peace. Beginning with a scene in a nursery, the youngest children are shown the necessity of self sacrifice. Another scene shows the need for cooperation in the home and school.

The pageant starts this afternoon (Friday) on the school grounds at 2:00 o'clock.

Other scenes reveal possibilities and essentials relative to harmonious living in the state, the nation and the world.

Although the pageant is based on actual facts acquired by the children in their activity work throughout the year, much drama is contained in the scenes spoken and the settings selected. There is a brilliant scene depicting early Spanish life in California, a bleak desert scene with rustic covered wagons portraying pioneer life during the days of the westward movement.

In the last act, two men passing over the various countries, seated in a huge Zeppelin, consider possibilities of world peace. The grand finale brings in all the different elements and peoples, the harmonious combination of which is essential for the establishment of world peace.

COUPLE MARRIED

Two well-known Carmelites were married in the justice court last Tuesday afternoon. They are Walter Eric Lewis, age 22, and the former Miss Mary Ammerman, 18. The couple will make their home in Carmel.

Witnesses were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ammerman, brother and sister-in-law of the bride, and John H. Bell.

Mrs. Albert J. Comstock of North Camino Real received a telegram last week announcing the death of her sister, Mrs. Elsie J. Ninemire, in Dupont, Washington. Mrs. Ninemire passed away after a brief illness and operation.

Mrs. John Ramage and her daughter, Josephine, of San Diego, are staying in one of the Rigney cottages on North Carmelo for an indefinite time.

MODERN ARCHITECTURE

Sent to Carmel by the Western Association of Art Museum Directors, an exhibit of contemporary creative architecture of California is now on display in the Denny-Watrous gallery.

There it will remain until R. M. Schindler, architect, lectures in Carmel sometime in the near future on present-day architectural trends in California.

The display, in itself an excellent exhibition of photographic prints, shows details and general views of some of California's newest and most interesting buildings, both commercial and residential. These range from the lofty Shell Oil Building in San Francisco to a "health house" in Los Angeles.

Architects represented in the display include J. R. Davidson, Miller and Pfueger, Richard Neutra, Jock Peters, R. M. Schindler, John Weber, Kem Weber and Frank Lloyd Wright.

The use of parallel lines, either flat of perpendicular, form an arresting feature of nearly all the designs. Construction that makes possible a maximum of sunlight and fresh air is another important element in the new architecture.

Carmelites interested in building either a 26 story skyscraper just outside the city limits where there are no zoning laws to forbid or in erecting a modest home may find material of interest in the current display.

WE GAIN A NEW NEPHEW

(From S. F. Examiner.)

The girl with the most beautiful legs in the world (so says Flo Ziegfeld) got married today.

Barbara Newberry, formerly of Boston, Vassar and Broadway showgirl, was quietly married in the municipal building to Eddie Foy, Jr., of the well-known theatrical family.

The bride is 21 and the bridegroom 25.

The romance began when they were playing a romantic duet in Ziegfeld's "Show Girl" several years ago.

It was a simple civil ceremony performed by a deputy city clerk in the municipal chapel. Mr. and Mrs. Max Newberry, parents of the bride, were the only witnesses.

Barbara joined the Ziegfeld ranks after she was graduated from Vassar College.

The superlative qualities of Miss Newberry's limbs were recorded in a figure created by Mahonri Young, famous sculptor.

PROMINENT ARTIST VISITS IN CARMEL

After holding an exhibit of her work in Santa Barbara, Miss Hilda M. Sides, well known artist, spent several days in Carmel. While here Miss Sides made several paintings of views found on Point Lobos, and also gave an invitational exhibit at the Sea View Inn for several of Carmel's artists. Her work is greatly varied in subject, ranging from garden paintings to those of Athens.

At present Miss Sides is giving an exhibit in San Francisco. She will continue on to New York in a short time where she will be engaged in making paintings of the many large gardens there. In October Miss Sides plans to return to her home in London, England.

SAMMY SAMPSON
NOW GLORIFYING
THE CARMEL GAL

Miss Elizabeth B. Sampson, to use Sammy's complete name, is now glorifying the Carmel Girl on the leading theatre stages of the country. According to reports from Southern California the former star of Abalone league play productions is now dancing with Fanchon and Marco at Leow's State theatre.

"The Brunette Idea" is Fanchon and Marco's latest offering to the jaded nation. Sammy, it will be recalled, pre-eminently qualifies for the role.

In about three weeks the Carmel girl will go twinkling across theatre stages of San Jose, Oakland and San Francisco, doing her important bit in making the T. B. M. brunette conscious. Later she dances her way north to Seattle, and thence east across the United States to the coast.

Sammy began her dancing at the age of three and a half years in the sedate town of Boston. She continued her studies in Santa Barbara. She left Carmel last January for a final course of training at the Hirsch-Arnold School of Ballet, and then struck out for fame and fortune on the stage.

Carmel scout troop 89 is leaving tomorrow for an overnight hike up Carmel Valley. They will return late Sunday. On the hike they will fish, swim and pass tests.

Mr. Nellie Junkins and Mr. Fred Warren, both of Carmel, were recently married in the Pacific Grove Methodist church with the Reverend Robert L. McArthur officiating. Both the bride and groom are well known here. Mr. Warren has been an employee of a local garage as mechanic for several years. The sorts of good luck for the future bride, also a resident in Carmel. Mr. and Mrs. Warren for a long time, has many friends have taken a cottage on Lincoln who wish the young couple all and Tenth Street.

SONG of the FLAME

COMES to the GOLDEN BOUGH

Alan Crosland, in his long career as a director of motion pictures, has many times acted as a pioneer in making film history.

Crosland directed the first talking picture, Al Jolson's "The Jazz Singer."

He directed John Barrymore's first talkie, "General Crack."

His latest pioneering effort was in bringing "Song of the Flame," the stage musical triumph, into screen form. This is Hollywood's first spectacle picture made since the advent of the sound films. It is a First National production, made entirely in Technicolor.

In each case Crosland was forced to blaze his own trail. Necessity was the mother of invention. In attempting new tricks with the movies he was traveling on uncharted ground, and frequently was stopped for hours, and even days, while he sought a way out of technical difficulties. And the precedents set by Crosland in his pioneering efforts have been followed by other directors when talkies and colors had been developed to an advanced stage.

"Song of the Flame" offered many problems because of its great production size. Thousands of persons had to be handled beneath the microphones and the strong lights needed for Technicolor photography. Some of the color scenes had to be made at night and under unusually difficult lighting conditions. Scenes were taken of fifty settings. Music had to be brought in with the proper motivation to fit the new film technique. Singers must break into song because of a reason, not just because the song was called for in the script. These were only a few of the pioneering problems met and overcome by Crosland in bringing this big spectacle, which cost $1,000,000 and took over six months to film, to the screen.

"Song of the Flame" features Alexander Gray, Bernice Claire, Noah Beery and Alice Gentle. Prominent also in the cast are Bert Roach, Inez Courtney, Shep Camp and Ivan Linow.

contest before May 5, the date on which registration will close. The preliminary competition will be held on the morning of May 24, at 8:30 a. m. in Wheeler Hall, and the finals at 2 o'clock in the afternoon at the Greek Theatre. The tryouts will be open to the public.

The passages from Shakespeare presented by the contestants must not exceed 25 lines. The selection must be memorized.

Judgement will be on the basis of feeling and intelligence shown in delivery. In addition, the judges, to be selected later, will consider sincerity, straightforwardness and freedom from the mannerisms usually characterized as "theatrical," or "elocutionary."

This does not mean that gestures shall not be used or real emotion dispensed with. Contestants are advised to read Hamlet's advice to the players.

POLLACK TO PLAY HERE

Carmel's musical event of the week is the concert of Robert Pollak, violinist, who plays in the Denny-Watrous gallery Saturday evening, May 17, at 8:30.

Not since Spalding was here has Carmel had an opportunity to hear a great violinist. Pollak has been compared favorably with Thibaud and Ysaye and even Kreisler. "He is a violinist who deserves to be mentioned side by side with Kreisler," according to the Bayrischer Kurier of Munchen. The Era of London adds, "Not every day, nor even many times in a year, do we hear such violin playing as Robert Pollak's." A Vienna journal describes him as "a lordly master of classic style, which he imbues with a modern spirit and with classic sentiment. His is the Bach style of our century as first discovered by Siegfried Ochs, Casals and our own most eminent violinists."

Pollak is a Viennese whose splendid musicianship has been acclaimed in the larger concert halls of the world. He is leaving the United States to accept a post in Tokio, so his Carmel concert is his last appearance in California for some time. He leaves the day after the concert for San Francisco in order to be present at a large farewell reception in his honor. His very interesting program follows:

STANLEY WOOD WINS ANNE BREMER PRIZE

Stanley Wood of Carmel is winner of the first prize of the Anne Bremer awards in the San Franciscan Art Association's Fifty-second Annual Exhibition at the California Palace of the Legion of Honor. And critics say that this is the best showing of art held in many years in San Francisco.

The 353 items listed in the catalogue include paintings, sculpture, water colors, pastels, drawings, etchings, lithographs and block prints of various sorts, and represent the work of 207 American artists from all parts of the United States. That even such a large and inclusive exhibition as this is a carefully selected one becomes evident when one learns that a total of some 800 works by considerably more than 400 artists were submitted, and which means that less than half of them were accepted.

That the jury of selection, which was comprised of Stafford Duncan, Constance Macky, Stanley Wood, Edgar Walter and Roi Partridge, was extremely liberal in its policy, is self-evident, as no one school or phase of contemporary art has been either favored or discriminated against. But the jury appears to have been laudably strict in establishing and maintaining a high standard for its selections, admitting only the best examples of the works of each school which were submitted.

The Association's first prize of $500, and medal, for the best painting in the exhibition have been awarded to a New York painter, John Carroll, for his modernistic oil, entitled the "Idol".

Charles Stafford Duncan, San Francisco painter, won the William L. Gerstle prize of $500 for his group of paintings. According to the terms of this award the winner should be an artist member of the Association, whose painting or group of paintings contributes most to the success of the exhibition.

Marian Simpson received the Association's $100 prize for the best water color painting, "The Dark Ocean."

Ralph Stackpole gained the $200 award for the best sculpture, a head of George Sterling.

There were two Anne Bremer Memorial prizes, established by Albert M. Bender. The first one of $300 was won by Stanley Wood for his lovely tempera panel, "The Lotus Lily." The second prize of $200 was awarded to Maynard Dixon for an oil painting "Merging of Spring and Winter."

Henrietta Shore is the recipient of the $100 Graphic Art prize for her litho-pencil sketch of a group of "Oaxaca Women," shown moving in a rhythmic pageant, carrying water in jugs. And Lucretia Van Horn won the $100 prize for the best drawing in the show, done in red chalk, in the Diego Rivera style.

how it all seems like a picturesque mirroring of the various stratifications of human society. From the flat-footed pedestrian duck to the haughty, convention-ridden peacock. If only we could hear the clarion crowing of Chanticleer, Castilian, proud and independent, boastful by virtue of achievement!

But then the black cockatoo is nobly crested, while the pink and graceful flamingo is as charmingly feminine as an unsophisticated maid. For the sake of comparison it must be granted, of course, that unsophisticated maidens still exist—an admittedly uncertain prediction!

The graceful flamingos appear in a decorative screen, the only object of its type included in the exhibition, and the most beautiful screen that I have seen in any of our galleries this season or for some seasons back.

The exhibition will continue through May 3.

BOSTON PRAISES MRS. BOTKE'S ART

The Boston Transcript says: Decorative panel pictures by Jessie Arms Botke, a California artist, are on view at the Vose Galleries through May 3.

Striving for purely decorative effects, Mrs. Botke, who studied at the Chicago Art Institute and was at one time a pupil of Charles H. Woodbury and Albert Herter, makes a brave and colorful showing in her first Boston exhibition. For subjects she calls upon the proudly plumed birds that prefer earthly vanity to trim winged flights through the heavens—the peacock, cockatoo, pheasant, macaw, parrot, flamingo, pelican and swan. And for her special benefit, because decorative panels must be decorative, even the lowly barnyard duck struts about in humorous emulation of her more richly gifted and aristocratic neighbors in the adjacent canvasses. CHILDREN WILL DO POSTERS FOR PLAYS

The dates for the children's summer play at the Forest Theater have been set for July 18 and 19, and Miss Blanch Tolmie has been selected as the producer. She will be assisted in the work of organization and direction by Mrs. Lita Bathen, president of the Drama Guild. The name of the play will be announced shortly.

There will be a contest among the children of the Monterey peninsula for the design of the poster to advertise the show. Full particulars will be given next week, but it is suggested that the poster will be a linoleum block or wood cut for a half sheet card, and the maximum age of contestants will be set at fourteen. This should be an event of educational value in an art way. The award will be based upon artistry and effectiveness, and professional artists will be the judges.

Sees Through Women

Gus Englund is not wearing blinders. Just the reverse. They're X-Ray glasses. With their aid he hopes to discover the thief who entered the home of Miss Ernestine Renzel last week and lifted a supply of imported silk lingerie. The chief of police's spectacles are the invention of Dunstan Maguire of the New York Detective Bureau. Don't think Gus is rude. He is not looking AT you. He is merely trying to see through all the women he meets. He is looking for step-ins embroidered with E R, also teddy bears, Italian silk vests, scanties, bloomers, and what have you. So, ladies, beware.

Sixteen interior and exterior views of La Ribera taken by Roger Sturtevant will appear in the July number of Arts in Architecture. They will be the feature of a leading article by H. Allen, associate editor.

* * *

Winners or losers, scores of Carmel gardens will be better for the competition. Viewed from any angle, the garden contest of the Woman's Club is one of the finest bits of propaganda ever conceived to further the ideals of the village. If anything could make Carmel more beautiful the women have hit upon one thing that would do it.

* * *

Opera-logues and play readings are growing in popularity. When expertly handled often they are as enjoyable as a complete performance. Jonny Spielt Auf was boresome given in its entirety at the Metropolitan Opera House in New York. The Denny-Watrous production which touched only the high spots contained not a single dull moment.

Likewise with Ben Legere's reading of the play Spreading Eagle. It was the best one-man performance this writer has attended in Carmel. The entire cast lived in this one man. Talk about double personality—Ben Legere's must be quintuple at least!

Well Chosen Words

In more than a few well chosen words Lincoln Steffens phrased a delightful introduction to Jack Black, ex-criminal, writer, lecturer, who appeared at Denny-Watrous Gallery Sunday night. Too bad Mr. Steffens could not have continued indefinitely. But Jack Black was supposedly the speaker of the evening, and really became such toward the end of his discourse when he dropped generalities and got down to cases—his own in particular. What a fascinating lecture, had he told the story of his life from the beginning! His somewhat repeat-ative, occasionally contradictory and at times rambling discourse revealed the speaker as less a thinker and constructive force, than an engaging raconteur. His presence, however, convinced. Honesty, sincerity, calm devotion to the cause unstained by the fires of enthusiasm, all are excellent equipment. He proclaims himself as an exhibit, not a conclusion. And we take him at his word. He has sized himself up accurately.

* * *

Hundreds of dope fiends cure themselves, says Jack Black. They have to. The habit is formed in prison to palliate the misery enclosed within iron bars. Once out of jail and back on the crime job, the ex-convict must drop the habit in a hurry. No gang would tolerate a hop. Nerve and brain must be alert. The highwayman's is an exacting profession.

* * *

The Denny-Watrous Gallery is becoming a popular rendezvous Sunday nights, and we predict great success for these ladies. If the attendance grows much larger it will be necessary to raise the roof and install a balcony.

* * *

The Carmel Academy of Music and Fine Arts is enrolling pupils each week. Classes in voice, piano, Italian, are filling up. Arthur Conradi, the San Francisco violinist, will spend one day a week in Carmel to direct the violin department. During the coming season the Academy will be an important drawing card. Such well known artists as Cator, Alberto, Conradi, Search, Warenskjold, Gilbert, deNeal Morgan, will bring students to Carmel for study.

"Pernetyapimeliacedrus lawsonianadeodara," he murmured. "No, dear," retorted a musical voice. "You mean tuberregoniacaceleria—" Here I interrupted. "What is it? a crossword puzzle?" The couple bent over the desk looked up. "No," answered James D. Bishop. "My wife and I were just selecting prizes for the garden contest. They're pretty high-brow over in Carmel, and we're selecting the largest botanical names we can find—" "But do they mean anything?" I inquired. "That's a question every man must decide for himself," replied the nursery-man. "It's a matter of taste."

Mr. Gordon Newall of San Francisco has come to Carmel where he is making his home.

CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA

SAYS I--

The Abalone League, in common with all other important ball leagues in this country, has moments of fond memory when the players of yesterday come out on to the green field and throw the ball around again.

Two in particular I like to conjure up, uniform and all, because they played with a style and a zest that made those early series the colorful, happy things they were. Alas for the commercialism of these latter days. I mean those two lads named "Doc" Hollison and Halsted Yates. At present they are benched at their homes on account of illness, but they follow games and cup struggles in a manner that would benefit their more recent League-mates.

The "Doc" pitched the carnivorous Sharks to victory in 1925, I think it was, and his change of pace during critical games made for many a broken bat. Broken because the batter, unable to hit the ball, would pound the inoffensive bat upon the ground.

Halsted Yates played second base. For some reason the batters then used to sizzle 'em down between first and second in a way seldom since duplicated, and Yates brought his Yale days up to date and brought the grandstand to its feet with his spearing of those hits.

We survivors would do well to drop in and chat with them, for they aren't jealous of their successors. Tricks of the trade can be learned, and as the present series goes on I expect to see the Hollison and Yates plays appear at crucial moments in all their dash and vigor.

Now to discuss something of vital need.

Carmel must not go another week without a Greeting Curfew. The present confusion upon our streets is a civic disgrace. Not once, but many times, has this breach of etiquette been observed, and yet the remedy is astonishingly simple.

"Good morning," means morning, not two-thirty in the afternoon. And woefully often is someone met with one who says "Good morning" even later in the day than that. It is no excuse if he is just out of bed and thinks that four hours following arising is still morning.

Let a loud, distinctive signal, such as a steam whistle, or an aerial bomb, be used as a noon-time warning. Then let the council pass a resolution fining, or jailing, anybody who profanes the town with a thoughtless "Good morning" when the afternoon officially holds sway.

Let us "point with pride and view with alarm" until something is done to change the existing chaos. Write to your marshal, plead with the mayor. Carmel, you SHALL be free.

P. S. The new bank got its dollar sign in backward between "Trust and Savings."

SUNSET SCHOOL

Sunset school's observation of Education Week comes to a close today (Friday). During the past week parents and other interested adults have been visiting the institution on San Car-

These displays, all of which aroused admiration, reflected the activities of Sunset school pupils during the past year. Many of the exhibits won genuine praise from some of the best artists in Carmel.

Today was set aside for special exhibits, including work in physical education, music, shop work and art.

A BLOOMING GOOD JOB

Another inspiring and very successful accomplishment of the Carmel Woman's Club will come to an end next week with the adjudgement of prizes in the Garden Contest. The friendly rivalry of the past few months has done much to better the beauty of Carmel, and furnish a lively interest for its people. To the Garden Section of the Woman's Club is due the credit.

The Carmel Woman's Club is in its fourth season, and one of the solid institutions of the village. In a town where a large majority of population is women, the manifest advantage has been used for the benefit of both women and men. The influence of the club has always been for the town as a whole, and its activities and entertainments are patronized by both sexes.

One of its most active sections is the Garden Section, and the flower show last spring, the garden contest now, are only the most apparent parts of their performances. For all the months of the year, and each year, they have studied to improve the flower gardens of the town, and to enhance the beauty of Carmel's streets and grounds. With advice of professional gardeners, they have learned and taught how to better the growth of plant, shrub and tree, and increase the blossoms to adorn the grounds.

There is nothing of greater interest to Carmel than the beauty of its surroundings. Whoever helps to enhance it deserves our thanks and is entitled to our praise. For many a blooming garden, for the Harrison Library grounds, for the planting of Casanova street, for the beginning of Devendorf Park, for flower shows and garden contest, Carmel gives the Woman's Club its thanks.

AN IMPROVED HIGH SCHOOL

A little over two years ago, voters of Carmel were largely instrumental in defeating a $220,000 bond issue for the Monterey Union High School. They cast 168 ballots against the bonds, to 50 for. In the district, the bonds lost by 251 for and 395 against.

Carmel's reasons for defeating the bonds were unsatisfactory conditions in both the school board and the school personnel. There was no question of the need for the improvements in the plant, but there was opposition to the directing heads of the school. It was believed that until such time as the influence exercised by Superintendent John H. Graves in high school affairs should be eliminated, the improvements could wait.

Now things are different. Superintendent Graves has resigned. A Carmelite, well qualified and efficient, has been elected to a place on the board of trustees. Carmel has great confidence in Mrs. Hester Schoeninger, and will show that confidence by reversing itself on the vote for bonds on June 16.

The improvements in the high school plant covered by the proposed bond issue of $225,000 are necessary, and are of a permanent character, and a ten year term bond issue will clear the decks before any additional building is required. The increase in tax rates will be small compared to the improved facilities of education. For another decade, Carmel's problems of edu-

SWAT THE MOSQUITO

Speaking of the census, and our phenomenally rapid growth in population, has anyone noticed how the mosquitoes have multiplied here in the past ten years? In 1920 a mosquito bite was almost as rare as hydrophobia, and Carmel was a screenless heaven. Now there are purple welts on many a face, and bolts and bolts of netting in doors and windows.

The singing, biting pests are products of the bird pools, where carelessness leaves them breeding places. Bird pools and lily ponds are an essential part of Carmel, but that doesn't signify that mosquitoes are. Fresh water, with frequent changes, is fatal to the larvae, and where this is impractical, gold fish will help keep the pools clear of the pests.

A survey of the situation as regards mosquitoes should be made at once, or this summer will be a series of nightmares. There are pools in the yards of vacant houses that have stood stagnant for months; there are thoughtless people who have left their own pools long unchanged; there are puddles from the last rains; all breeding mosquitoes; and all unnecessarily so. Some can be drained, some freshened, some doped with coal oil, some livened with greedy gold fish.

Naturally, Carmel was free of mosquitoes. They are a part of civilization and progress. Their suppression is quite possible, and a matter of importance to comfort. Give it attention now.

TO OUR CONGRESSMAN

Hon. Arthur M. Free,
Washington, D. C.,

Dear Sir:—I have received your book, "Yearbook of Agriculture," and thank you for same. As the census enumerator has discovered a farm in Carmel, I intend to give it to the farmer as soon as I can discover him. It should prove very valuable.

I have not reviewed it for the paper, and may not be able to find space for an extended review of it. However I have dipped into it here and there, and must compliment you upon its firm grasp of the subject. The chapter on Hog Cholera was particularly inspiring.

Might I suggest that the section devoted to Fertilizer Experiments on Rabbit Manure could be handled more delicately without materially affecting its educational value? With the Senate deep in debate on the matter of censorship of questionable foreign books, it might be wise to keep the Congressional Record and the Agricultural Year Book sweetly clean. But this is merely a suggestion.

Out here in sunny California, your article "Christmas Tree Demand Is Means of Improving Pike National Forest" will have a wide reading. We are intensely interested in Christmas trees here, and I have a strong suspicion that the farm discovered in Carmel by the census enumerator—as mentioned above—is a Christmas tree farm. Even our children, boys and girls, are serious students of the matter of full crops on Christmas trees.

We are glad that Congress and the Agricultural Department has at last taken up the subject of Hemorrhagic Septicemia. For years and years it has been neglected in all the books I have read. The chapter on the subject is, I have no doubt, full of kernels of thought. I intend to read it soon.

Would it be possible, Mr. Free, to put some of your book into verse, so lightening it for Carmel distribution? Our poets could do something really good with Hemorrhagic Septicemia. Or with Soybean Silage. Another suggestion regards illustration. Instead of so many half-tone plates, couldn't linoleum blocks or woodcuts be used?

But otherwise we like your book very well, and gladly extend your kind offer to the public that you will furnish a limited number of copies on request.

Very sincerely yours,
The Carmel Pine Cone

FRIGHTENING PHRASES.

One of the first problems to face the new city council was of oak trees in a street, "dangerous to life and limb." Ordinarily councilmen's faces pale at the phrase. The facts that our accidents rarely happen at the places labeled "dangerous to life and limb," for the very good reason that drivers of cars use care in such locations, is not enough to remove the feeling of responsibility from the men and women who must decide the question.

The council, instead of passing the buck to the Street Superintendent, went to the place on North Monte Verde street and studied the situation. Certain things could be done to amend the dangerous condition, yet leave the oaks. The change of position of a telephone pole, while it might break the rules of the company, would not destroy trees that had spent years in growing beautiful; the roadway could be widened, which although it might put a curve in the engineer's straight line, would not detract from the artistry of the right of way. The council found another way to correct the fault than the old, old way of felling the trees.

A great beginning of an administration which Carmel expects will give as much thought to the beauty of the town as to its utility, and will face the frightening phrases with brave hearts. "Dangerous to life and limb" has been, in the past, dangerous to the life and limbs of our eucalyptus, pines and oaks. That's all.

taineer of Great Salt Lake City, addressed to Brigham Young a subscriber, dated in 1859. In one of these, December 31, 1859, is the account of the execution of John Brown.

John A. Kennedy, representative of Universal Service, has just been awarded the Pugsley prize of $1,000 "for the most noteworthy work by a Washington correspondent during the year 1929."

Kennedy was the chap who exposed the Bingham-Eyanson incident at the national capitol. It was his work in this case than won first place in the eyes of the distinguished jury that awarded the prize.

Senator Bingham, it will be recalled, had placed Charles Eyanson, lobbyist, on the senate payroll as clerk in order that he might sit with the senator in secret sessions of the finance committee studying the tariff bill.

Young reporters might be interested to know that actions which led to the award were "definite public service" rendered by Kennedy in bringing about the lobby investigation still under way, and "his reportorial resourcefulness" in persistently following up the original tip concerning Eyanson's presence in the Senator's office.

Where Prohibition Prohibits By Bob Stowell

(This jingle was inspired by an announcement in a recent edition of a Fresno paper that the Federal Prohibition Branch office in Monterey had been closed because of no vestige of evidence of bootlegging.)
Oh! Athlete red of nose and eye

Thy day has finally passed by.
No sodden golfer shatters par
On Monterey Peninsula.
No more is virgin air imbued
With curses bibulous and lewd.
Each clumsy stroke of spoon or putter
Inspires no oath nor vicious mutter.
And if some duffer smites fair sod
None cries, "Eheu," nor prays his god
To strike the silly fellow dead—
One takes a cup of tea instead.

What joy it is to live on land
As free as this from vice's hand,
And if some wastrel gets a bun
Just trace it to a touch of sun.

The great difference between the modern period and the past in art lies in the realm of judgment and authority. At the present time there is no parallel for the wisdom with which the fifteenth century, for example, faced its new problems, for power was then in the hands of competent men, and however swiftly the changes in art came about the temporal or spiritual lords who gave employment to the artists were equal to the task of selecting the great men to do the work, the minor artists being assigned to less important tasks, or remaining craftsmen (all artists begin as craftsmen). When the Emperor Charles V made his famous remark that he could create nobles but that God alone could create a Titian, he was not so much giving the measure of an artist's greatness as leaving to posterity a token of the kind of judgment that Renaissance princes possessed; and as one looks over their portraits and the decorations of their palaces, one sees how general appreciation was among the rulers at that time.

"After the French Revolution, the great change began at once. There was no longer a Pope Julius II to call for the decoration of a Sistine Chapel, no longer a Charles V to stoop and pick up the brush of Titian, a Philip IV to pass his days watching Velasquez at work, nor a Burgomeister Six to delight in the society of Rembrandt. No one knows where authority resides in matters of contemporary art, and the past is continually being fought over. The Revolution took the Louvre away from the kings and gave it to the people, as a public museum, and the French idea was followed all over Europe with the creation of great public galleries, a new and powerful influence in the modern period. Where in the past, works of art, especially those of distant places and times, had been difficult of access, the whole art of the world was spread out for everyone and each year saw the treasure grow in quantity and diversity. Instead of the relatively simple standards of the earlier times, an immense amount of ancient material, superficially different from current production lent the weight of its prestige for a fabulous "golden age" in the past and brought about a false taste for things resembling those consecrated by the museum. Today we see that nothing so resembles a fine ancient work as a fine modern one, however different in outward aspect; and that no work is farther from the classic than that which copies merely its externals. The change from arts which were familiar and natural to arts which had previously been known only to a few created a distinction between museum-art, a thing to be visited occasionally, in a stately and rather cheerless place, and what is wrongly called popular art—the trivial stuff that unthinking people can understand and live with.

"The continual increase in the rank and file of artists has entailed a keener struggle for a living and a further lowering of standards—which have been sinking pretty steadily for the past hundred years. The modern world would make a pitiful showing indeed if its artistic achievement were really represented by the artists who are in control of most of the art schools and exhibitions in all countries, and whose work hangs in too many museums. Fortunately the "official" bodies by the very excess of their zeal in boycotting the masters of their time, have come to be distrusted. Perhaps the real reason for the misunderstanding of art in the modern epoch is the individualism which prevents men from working in common."—Walter Pach.

Fred W. Coleman of Carmel is a collector of things of historic value, and has some three thousand specimens which, some time soon, will be housed in a fire-proof building on the block owned by Frank W. Smith, in old Carmel. Among these relics of days past are newspapers dating into the eighteenth century, one of the oldest being the March 29, 1743 copy of the York Courant.

More interesting to Americans is a copy of the Maryland Journal and Baltimore Advertiser of August 20, 1773. It is number one of volume one, and "the great difficulty and experience of obtaining a proper assortment of Printing Materials, an inadequate Number of Subscribers to defray the Charge of printing a weekly Newspaper, added to several unfortunate Events which have happened to me, have been the reasons why the Newspaper, so long expected, hath not before made its appearance."

All fair enough reasons—then or now. The paper which is four pages about the size of the Pine Cone's page, has about one-third of it in advertising, which suggests prosperity. Among the advertisements is one of George Washington—and this, mind you, was before he became the Father of his Country—who was opening up a subdivision—which is not what they called it then—on the Ohio and the Great Kanhawa rivers.

Says George Washington of his lands, "It is almost needless to promise that none can exceed them in luxuriance of soil, or convenience of situation. . . abounding with fine fish and wild fowl of various kinds, as also in most excellent meadows, many of which (by the bountiful hand of Nature) are, in their present state, almost fit for the scythe."

There are several ads offering rewards for the return of escaped negro slaves, and one odd reward of ten pounds for the return of an Irish slave, Owen McCarty. Jacob Mohler, clock and watchmaker, informs his friends and the public, that "he makes musical, horizontal, repeating and plain clocks in the neatest manner, and newest fashion, and at the lowest prices." There's a Job for "an active, faithful Man, who can write a tolerable hand, and keep a fair account, to ride as a private post or carrier between this town and Philadelphia." Thomas Brereton "wants to buy a Negro girl, about twelve years old." J. R. Holliday, Sheriff of Baltimore County, announces that his deputy "has my orders to execute every person that has not paid" his public dues or taxes.

Another interesting newspaper is the Daily Citizen of Vicksburg, Miss., dated July 2, 1863, but printed July 4th., the same year. Between the date of issue and the date issued, Vicksburg had surrendered to Grant. The Federal soldiers, finding the form all locked up on the stone in the printshop, lifted a bit of type in one corner, and substituted the following: "NOTE. Two days bring about great changes. The banner of the Union floats over Vicksburg. Gen. Grant has 'caught the rabbit'; he has dined in Vicksburg, and he did bring his dinner with him. The Citizen lives to see it. For the last time it appears on wall paper. No more will it imagine the luxury of mule-meat and fricasseed kitchen—urge Southern warriors to such diet never more. This is the last wall paper edition, and is, excepting for this note, from the types as we found them. It will be valuable hereafter as a curiosity."

The paper is printed upon the back of a strip of wall paper. The mention of the "caught rabbit" is an illusion to an item in the same issue that Gen. Grant had boasted to eat his Fourth of July dinner in Vicksburg, and he must first "catch his rabbit." An editorial stating that mule steak "is sweet, savory and tender" and that "our soldiers will be content to subsist on it" explains the meat excerpt. Coleman was given this very valuable relic by a Wisconsin soldier in Grant's forces who went through the siege, and was at hand in the streets of Vicksburg when it surrendered July 4, 1863, with a garrison of 37,000 men, and this wall paper edition was run off the press of the Citizen.

Other newspapers in the collection are copies of the Long Island Star of 1832, Mann's Family Physician, 1818, and a number of copies of the Moun-

THIS AND THAT, FROM HERE AND THERE, NOW AND THEN

The irony of things! Newspapers are carrying front page headlines, "Carmel the Fastest Growing Town in Five Counties." And we are probably the only town in the five counties—Santa Clara, San Mateo, Santa Cruz, San Benito and Monterey—that was not eager for the fame!

In the census district, which includes the counties named, are 32 incorporated cities with populations of from 369 to 57,547, each one striving to make the best showing of percentage of growth—each one except Carmel. And Carmel leads with a percentage of 252.3. Second is Burlingame in San Mateo county, with 217.8. In our own county, populations and percentages are as follows:

Salinas	10,260	4,308	138.1
Monterey	9,500	5,479	73.3
Pacific Grove	5,554	2,974	86.5
Carmel	2,248	638	252.3

A monastery of the Carmelites will be built at the mouth of San Jose creek, just back of and above the rest home of the Sisters of Notre Dame, the gift of Miss Maria Antonia Field of Monterey. Ten acres of land will be enclosed by stone walls, and a beautiful building placed in the center. The temporary Carmelite monastery on the Point will be removed when the new home of the order is complete.

Strict enforcement of the law in respect to boulevard stops is now under way throughout the state as part of the California Committee of Public Safety campaign to reduce the traffic accident toll. The boulevard stop regulation is the subject of the May campaign of the Committee in its all-year, continuous movement of education and enforcement. The California Highway Patrol and police departments of principal cities are co-operating in the campaign.

The state law requires motorists to bring vehicles to a complete stop upon approaching any arterial or through street designated by signs.

A "home-coming" party will celebrate Monterey's 160th birthday on Tuesday, June 3, according to plans recently made at a meeting in the Old Customs House. June 3 is the 160th anniversary of the actual founding of the town; that is to say the founding of the church and the fort. Monterey's birthday is a three-in-one proposition, the anniversary of the founding of the town, the mission and the presidio, for the modern presidio is in a sense a continuation of the old fort, occupying in part the same site.

It is possible that Governor C. C. Young will be on hand on the commemorative Tuesday. When he visited Monterey during the "name-Day" celebration, last December, he said that he hoped to be able to return for the birthday party.

And that is just what it is going to be, according to the committee; a real party with a good time for all and sundry. The guests of the day are to be members of the old Spanish families from all over the state. Likewise will a small group of descendants of the Mission Indians be so honored.

A review of the troops of the Presidio of Monterey will occupy the forenoon program and there will be a sunset ceremony starting at 4:45 p. m., on the site of the old Spanish fortification near the Serra monument at the Presidio.

Safety of natural gas is the subject of a recent article by Edward J. Torney, insurance engineer, in the "Underwriters' Report."

Writing as an expert of fires and fire insurance, Torney says the introduction of natural gas will result in a marked decrease in explosions and fire losses. "Chimney and roof fires will cease; wood and coal for fuel, together with ashes, will be eliminated; the many hazards involved in the use of oil as fuel will disappear, and the smoke nuisance of our cities will be abated."

Torney adds that the explosion hazard of natural gas is no greater than of artificial gas. He points out that it leaks more slowly and is highly odorized by the company. It can easily be detected and reported.

Members of the California Highway Patrol have been notified to require motorists in their territory to observe a new section of the motor vehicle act requiring all vehicles to come to a stop at grade crossings when a human flagman or mechanical signal is giving warning of the immediate approach of a train. A report on grade crossing accidents, prepared by the railroad commission, shows that 52 percent of such accidents last year occurred at crossings protected by signals. Assistance of municipal authorities throughout the state in securing enforcement of the law has been asked.

Twenty years ago, on March 14, 1910, the Monterey Evening Herald remarked editorially: "For the last thirty-odd years, Monterey has agitated for a break-water. Sometimes the agitation has been vigorous, and again it has died down. But Monterey is now nearer to realization than ever before. Mr. Needham is backing us to the limit. In his letter to the chamber of commerce, he tells Col. Biddle in almost so many words that he would like a favorable report. With the advent of a break-water, a railroad from the interior will follow as sure as night follows day.

"Then Monterey will grow. Everybody who is here will be on the ground floor. Monterey will be a second Los Angeles. Everybody here will make money."

It's a long lane that has no turning, and it's a flinty hearted Congress which would turn down such persistency. After thirty-odd, plus twenty years of striving, Monterey should get what she wants. But the "ground floor" of twenty years ago is not that of today, and a "second Los Angeles" is not what the people ask for.

A population equal to that of Salinas was all that Monterey hoped from the present census. The disappointment is bitter that they fell some twelve hundred below the county seat. Monterey's fish cannery and fishermen, they explain, were away from homes on other jobs during the count, while at Salinas all the floaters in the west were busy at lettuce picking in the fields. With the perpetual fear of Monterey's stealing the courthouse relieved, Salinas is gloating wildly over the count.

The historical comedy, "The Madonna of Monterey," written by Mrs. Fremont Older, has been chosen as the official fiesta pageant of San Jose's Fiesta de las Rosas and has Carmel as its setting. The entire three acts of the play are laid in Carmel and tell of the early history of California. Governor Pedro Fages and his wife, Eulalia, are the leading characters. The life of that period, a fiesta, and an attack on the settlers by Indians are described in the scenes of the play.

Reginald Travers, theatrical producer of San Francisco, will direct the play and at least three prominent stage stars will take leading parts in it, as well as a cast of 150.

LINES ON A RECENT CRIME

No crafty wolf nor cautious, cunning lynx;
No tiger, sleek, majestic, striped and mighty;
No beast, though monstrous as the stony Sphinx
Would dare to steal a lady's favorite "nightie."
The thought of lovely, pleading eyes begemmed
With tears, of pallid cheeks begraved by grief,
Should save the fairest "step-ins" ever hemmed
From outrage by the meanest, sneaking thief.
No heavy handed wight should lay upon
A lady's scattered "scanties," horny paws;
For judgement, bleaker than a winter dawn
Would flay him for this breach of Higher Laws.
In short, this scurviest of scurvy crimes,
Contrived by nimble key and loathly jimmy.
Was done by some poor victim of these times,
Some dancing man, wit-addled by the shimmy.
No stealthy beast would e'er commit this act;

Who did this deed was some befuddled human.
Bereft of reason and bereft of tact
He stole the garments dearest known to woman.

$50,000 PLEDGE IS PAID OFF BY MARION HOLLINS

Marion Hollins—good sport. Miss Hollins of Carmel, former national women's golf champion and holder of many other titles on the links, has won that name before. By paying off a five-year-old agreement last night at a party given at the Paso Tiempo country club at Santa Cruz she simply offered further proof of her right to the appellation.

Five years ago Miss Hollins, Mrs. Louis Dudley of Santa Monica and Eric Pedley of Los Angeles, the polo star, were seated at a dinner table somewhere on the peninsula—perhaps it was Del Monte. During the dinner the agreement was reached that the first member of the trio to make one million dollars would give the other two $25,000 apiece.

Newspapers recently carried stories of Miss Hollins' financial coup in a Kettleman Hills oil fields land transaction. Considerably more than a million was realized by the Carmel woman.

Last night Miss Hollins entertained 30 guests at the club near Santa Cruz. During the dinner she presented Pedley and Mrs. Dudley with checks for $25,000.

Many peninsula residents were present at the affair.

Mrs. Dudley is associated with Edwin Carewe motion picture director, in financial enterprises. Pedley is a stock broker.

CARMEL RED CROSS TO GIVE LESSONS IN SWIMMING SOON

With an eye to lowering the number of drowning fatalities, Carmel's chapter of the American Red Cross will give courses in swimming and life saving during the week starting May 26.

The week of training here is a part of similar work being done at this time in all parts of the country.

Members of Carmel's Red Cross chapter intend to offer the best of instruction to non-swimming residents of the village. An expert will be brought from San Francisco for the course, which will cost no one a cent.

One or two deaths from drowning is not an unusual occurrence along Carmel's beach during a summer.

Applications for instruction may be made with Robert Leidig in Carmel or Mrs. Ralph Skene on the Point.

Prone pressure resuscitation, large-worded but simple method of breathing for one who may be dying from lack of air, is one of the important subjects being taught by the Red Cross life-saving experts.

Whether the person is apparently drowned, overcome by gas or smoke, or electrocuted, he may be brought back to consciousness and living by an immediate application of prone pressure resuscitation. This method of artificial breathing, simply stated, is pressure and release on the outer ribs of a person lying on his face. It is not hard to learn, but everyone needs some instructions so that the hands of the resuscitator will be properly placed, and so that the speed of the pressure and release will not be too fast or too slow.

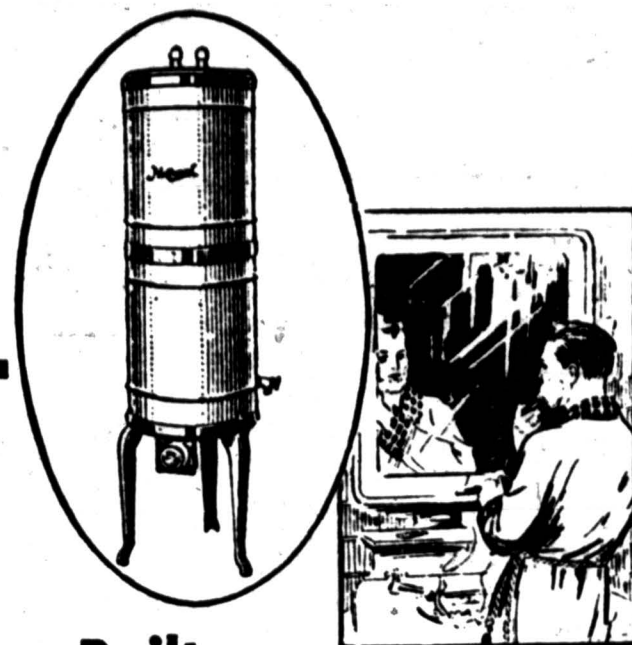

Everyone cannot be an expert swimmer or life-saver, but everyone can learn how to breathe for a suffocated person by prone pressure resuscitation. Red Cross experts say, "Save the seconds and save the life." Although some persons have been revived by resuscitation after 30 minutes of not breathing, the chances of saving are poorer with each passing minute.

No one should wait for a specialist when a drowning person is brought ashore. He should go to work at once, but he cannot effectively do something he has never learned. Now is the time to learn; "later" may be after a life has been needlessly sacrificed.

HERO HONORED

General John C. Fremont, who made Monterey peninsula the scene of many of his important military operations during the stirring days of early California, has been further honored.

The site of his encampment in 1846 near San Miguel Mission on the highway near Paso Robles was marked last Sunday by a monument erected by the Paso Robles Women's club.

Education Week

Did you visit any of the exhibits at Sunset School last week? It was Education Week and exhibits of the work of the pupils this year were on exhibition. All of the rooms had many interesting displays. They ranged from a model of Carmel in the second grade to a puppet play in the eighth grade. Today (Friday) is special teachers' day and they have exhibits in music, art, manual training and physical education in the auditorium.

The World Peace Pageant is to be given this afternoon at 2:00 P. M. All grades in the school except the kindergarten are in the pageant, which promises to be a lively affair. Miss Genevieve Swain, eighth grade teacher, wrote the pageant and directs it. It is to be presented on the outdoor stage.

The Forest Wind

From the Douglas Schools at Pebble Beach comes news that their school paper, "The Forest Wind," has just been published. It was the third number of that paper. It contains news, poems and stories of the Douglas Schools that are of interest to the reading public besides the pupils of those schools. The editorial staff is as follows: editor, Jean Hobbs; assistant, Louise Parke; business manager, Betty Reynolds, assistant, Alice Adams; poetry and literature, Katharine Goodfellow; assistant, Dorothy Graft; sports, Polly Forsyth; assistant, Nancy Stambaugh; society, Louise Parke; art, Carol Stambaugh; humor, Jane Pitou; faculty advisor, Miss Marjorie Douglas; class room editors, Virginia Wheeler, Barry Flanders and Junior Merrell.

School Calendar

The calendar for the rest of the term at Sunset School is as follows: Robin Hood, Friday, May 23, 2:00 P. M.; Eighth grade class day, May 29, 2:00 P. M.; Memorial Day, holiday, May 30; graduation day, outdoor stage, 1:30 P. M. June fifth; last day of school, Friday, June sixth.

Boy Scouts

At the boy scout meeting last Thursday an announcement was made stating that a court of honor is to be held in the Monterey grammar school on Thursday, May 22. A large number of visitors is desired. Come. You will find it an evening full of much entertainment. The troop was re-registered at that meeting.

Girl Scouts

A candy and doughnut sale was held by the girl scouts last Saturday morning. The candy and doughnuts were made by the scouts. Over $12 was the net profit which went into the scout funds.

At the last meeting of the scouts they practiced knot tying. The Wild Iris patrol won. Betty Ray Sutton has been elected scribe.

CHAUVET SENT TO JAIL FOR BATTERY

Pleading guilty to charges of battery, Raoul Chauvet of Seaside was recently sentenced to 15 days in jail by Judge Ray Baugh of the Monterey justice court.

Chauvet was arrested some two weeks ago by George Kinlock, constable, after entering the home of Miss Laura Fennimore of Hatton Fields and severely beating the young lady. Miss Fennimore swore to the complaint.

Chauvet, said to be acting in a fit of jealousy, also turned his attentions to a young man, whom he beat.

Chauvet spent 13 days in jail before his trial. He was unable to raise bail. Those 13 days do not count on his sentence of 15.

MORE CONVICTS SENT TO LABOR CAMPS ON COAST

Another 24 prisoners have arrived at the two convict camps maintained down the coast, where construction of the Carmel-San Simeon highway is in progress. The camp at the mouth of the Little Sur below Carmel now has approximately 66 men at work, while 70 are engaged at the San Simeon establishment farther south.

According to highway official estimates the grading will be completed within two years, and the Carmel-San Simeon highway ready to carry its first through traffic.

Meanwhile it is reported that there is growing sentiment in favor of the state highway commission granting at the earliest possible date a contract for re-grading the coast highway south of Carmel. It is pointed out that this road is dangerous in its present condition.

RANGERS, SHAMROCKS WIN BALL GAMES

Desperate baseball on the Abalone league diamond last Sunday resulted in the defeat of the Giants by the Rangers and of the Tigers by the Shamrocks. In the opening nine inning game of the afternoon the Rangers went into an early lead of 2 to 0, increased it later to 3 to 0 and finally wound up at the end 6 to 3.

A seventh inning rally fanned Giant hopes, and brought in enough runs to tie the score at three all. But a cool, confident and brilliant set of athletes wearing Rangers colors stepped up to bat in the following inning and scored three runs, utterly routing the enemy. When the Giants came to bat in the ninth their spirit was broken.

Reckless base running marked the close and exciting contest. In the first two innings a majority of the outs were made by enthusiastic runners who found themselves stranded between bases. They were ruthlessly mowed down in their tracks.

Mort Henderson and Ivan Kelsey of the Giants, home run busters, went to bat each inning trying to drive the ball out of the diamond. Neither player was able to hit past the pitcher.

In the second game the Shamrocks turned on the Tigers by a count of 11 to 5. Heavy hitting and a number of errors lead to the scores. Frank Murphy pitched for the winners and Tal Josselyn for the losers.

Henderson, unable to hit in the first game, got his home run in the seventh inning of the second when he hit over center field into the road. He was playing for the Shamrocks.

The two Myamoto brothers pitched in the opening game.

TOM PHILLIPS SINKS HOLE IN ONE SUNDAY

Tom Phillips is still cherishing the memory of a master stroke of golf made last Sunday on the Robles Del Rio Carmelo course in the Carmel valley.

After playing 17 holes on the mountain goat course with the usual flashes of brilliance and duffing, Phillips stepped to the eighteenth tee, drove the ball and watched it drop from sight on the eighteenth green. A hole in one.

BASS ARE CAUGHT ON CARMEL BEACH

Trout fishing, as everyone admits, is rare sport. But at the same time anglers are reminded that bass fishing in the ocean surf is now coming into its own this season.

Already a number of fine fish have been taken at Carmel's front door. Ernie Schweninger and Ralph Condon are two Carmelites who have been making the most of the early fishing on the beach near the point.

A bass tearing through the surf at the end of a line is said to offer more sporting dynamite per second than the average big trout.

A considerable run of bass has started in the past two weeks. These have been mostly small fish as yet but as the season advances there is no doubt that larger fish will be taken.

So far more fish are being taken in the surf with casting tackle than there have been in any of the sloughs or river mouths nearby.

Those who have been out after the bass also report that there is a good run of the big Jack Smelt and that many of these are taken by those who fish for bass. Though the Jack Smelt is not what is known as a game fish, some of the bigger ones supply a little fun if the tackle on which they are taken is not too heavy. The general report seems to be that the regular Monterey sardine seems to get the best results. Also that the location of the best run is along the beach below Seaside.

TOURNEY COMING

En-Tout-Cas tennis courts are being completed at Del Monte Lodge, Pebble Beach. These will be used in the coming Ninth annual Hotel Del Monte Lawn Tennis Championships June 20-22. The Lake courts at Hotel Del Monte have been resurfaced and enlarged to championship dimensions. There will be 9 courts available for this year's Del Monte tourney.

The annual dog show of the Del Monte Club will be held at Del Monte June 14-15.

This year's California Amateur Golf Championship will be conducted on four courses—Pebble Beach, Cypress Point, Del Monte and Monterey Peninsula Country Club, September 1-7. The usual North vs. South team matches will precede the State Championship. The Del Monte Championship for women will be held on the Del Monte links September 3-7.

CHURCH NEWS

ALL SAINTS CHURCH

Morning Prayer

Morning prayer at 11:00 o'clock with service read by Mr. Covington.

An Event

of special interest to all will be the annual outing and picnic to be held tomorrow (Saturday) at the Deserted Indian Village. It will be under the joint auspices of the Church schools of St. Marys-by-the-Sea, Pacific Grove, and All Saints, Carmel. Everybody is invited. Bring your basket and be in front of the church at 10:30 sharp. Transportation, ice-cream and prizes for the games will be provided by the church schools.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

'Mortals and Immortals' will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon next Sunday in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

The citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon will include the following from the Bible: "For we know that if our earthly house of this tabernacle were dissolved, we have a building of God, an house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens. For in this we groan, earnestly desiring to be clothed upon with our house which is from heaven: If so be that being clothed we shall not be found naked. For we that are in this tabernacle do groan, being burdened: not for that we would be unclothed, but clothed upon, that mortality might be swallowed up of life" (II Cor. 5: 1-4).

The Lesson-Sermon also will include the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Human capacity is slow to discern and to grasp God's creation which go with it, demonstrating its spiritual origin. Mortals can never know the infinite, until they throw off the old man and reach the spiritual image and likeness" (p. 519).

YOUNG MATRONS HOLD CHURCH MEET

The Young Matron's Guild of Community church met Tuesday evening of last week in their newly renovated room, after a month of diligent painting and renewal of furniture which had transformed the room into a colorful meeting place.

The program consisted of games and a splendid reading. "The Perfect Tribute" was read by Mrs. V. M. Bain.

A short business meeting reported a recent successful food sale, the proceeds of which go towards the new Communion Table.

Twenty three young matrons were present and several new members were received. The splendid evening closed with the serving of delicious refreshments by Mrs. Mylar and Mrs. Edna C. Lockwood. The program was in charge of Mrs. Mabel Hart and Mrs. Clara Nixon.

COMMUNITY CHURCH

Again there is to be an unusually beautiful service on Sunday next at 11:00 o'clock at the Carmel Community church. The occasion is the dedication of a new Communion Table. This has been made possible by the splendid gifts of a number of people and the devoted labor of others. The Rev. T. Harold Grimshaw will read the dedicatory ritual and preach a sermon on the subject of "The Lost Reverence of the Modern Church." Very cordial invitations are being extended to all friends and visitors. This is the church of the people, and its motto is "We Think and Let Think."

MOTHERS' DAY SERVICE

Last Sunday morning a beautiful Mothers' Day service took place at the Community church. The church was beautifully decorated in the red and white motif belonging to Mothers' Day observance. V. M. Bain sang in his usual inimitable way. Four young matrons acted as gracious ushers, and distributed flowers to the large congregation which taxed the capacity of the church.

LUJAN OFFERS TO SING HERE AGAIN

If there is a sufficient number of Carmel residents interested in hearing Tony Lujan sing again, the Taos Indian will give another concert in the village before leaving for New Mexico.

Friends of Lujan suggest that anyone interested telephone Mrs. Lincoln Steffens, requesting another concert. The Indian has graciously offered to sing again if enough people are interested.

Lujan sings today in Mrs. Fremont Older's "Fiesta de las Rosas." On the 18th he sings at Ansel Adams' in San Francisco, and on the 19th at Palo Alto. He returns to Carmel on the 20th and leaves on the 27th with Mrs. Lujan for Taos.

Jimmie Gilson, of Santa Cruz spent last week end with his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. James McGrury.

Instead of $2,500,000, as was first reported, Miss Marion Hollins of Pebble Beach, former Women's Golf Champion, will receive only $1,500,000 for her by a group of which Miss Hollins was one of the leading oil land, recently disposed of lights.

EVERYTHING BUT KITCHEN STOVE USED IN ADOBE

Just what sort of materials went into construction of California missions—Carmel Mission among them—is shown in a study of adobe bricks just completed in Berkeley by Professor George Hendry and Margaret Kelly, graduate student at the University of California College of Agriculture.

The university representatives found, in dissolving adobe bricks from 12 Spanish missions and three old ranchos, that the mission fathers not only used straw and grass to bind the adobe together, but swept up the kitchen dooryard for that purpose, adding fruit pits, grape seeds, leather scraps, horse hair and bones.

Apparently the mission fathers weren't finicky. At San Vincente mission human bones in great abundance have been found in the adobe bricks. Hendry accounts for the fact when he says, "The year following the founding of this mission, 1781, a small-pox epidemic greatly decimated the Indian population and this no doubt accounts for the presence of so many human remains, in shallow graves, all about the mission site. Soil for later building operations was evidently taken from the earlier burial ground, and in this way the remains of the first converts have found their way into the walls of the holy edifice."

FEMININE WEAR PLUNDERED FROM HOME IN CARMEL

Diaphanous garments of sheerest nothing have been wantonly pilfered from the home of two young women of Carmel, according to complaints lodged with the police.

Meanwhile outraged forces of society have organized under the leadership of August Englund, marshal, in the greatest manhunt of local history. The drag-net, so to speak, has been thrown over the city, while the haunts of Carmel's underworld are being combed in an effort to bring the offender before the bar of justice.

When that outlaw is found—as an aroused citizenry declares he or she must be found—he will answer to the theft of scanties and other sacred possessions of Miss Ernestine Renzel and Miss Pauline Enzminger, prominent members of the local younger set.

Englund, meanwhile, is in the unfortunate position of being a sleuth without a clue. Not only are the imported knickknacks missing, but so is the ravisher thereof—totally, completely missing. And not a foot-print, finger print or speck of grey cigarette ash remains as a basis for detection.

AUTO IN JAM BUT WITHOUT TURNOVER

Police report: "on Tuesday evening, May 13, parked machine owned by Miss H. D. Bullock of Carmel ran into window of bakery shop on Ocean avenue. Damage payment arranged."

Sidney, well known local chef who witnessed the accident, became imbued with the Carmel spirit and submitted the following effusion:

The Pierce "Rolls" into the bakery shop and got "jammed" in the window but did not "turn-over." It took some "raising" to get it out. The "bum-pernickie" was damaged and it will take a lot of "dough" to get it fixed.

Police promised to protect Sidney from any violence on publication of the above paragraph.

Extravaganza May Be Given For Show Here

As a change from the usual diet of plays, directors of the Forest Theatre are planning to present a Carmel musical extravaganza on the open air stage toward the end of July.

Although no final decision has been reached, it is believed that the plan will be favorably voted on when the directors meet in the near future. In the meantime Metz Durham, who will produce the extravaganza, is at work on details of the show.

The extravaganza, it is pointed out, will be "Carmel" from beginning to end. Advance information hints of a Chinese number featuring Pong Sing, and of a Spanish number. Outstanding village personalities will come in for their share of attention.

The Forest Theatre season is to open early in July with a production of The God of Gods. Byron Foulger, who will direct the play, is expected in Carmel during the last week of this month. He hopes to start rehearsals early in June.

Further theatre news of the village indicates that Morris Ankrum, director of the Tacoma Little Theatre, will conduct Edward Kuster's Student Workshop of Play Production this summer.
